BONUS FOR SOLDIERS FINALLY BECOMES LAW

Congress Over-rides President's Veto Ending Controversy.

AGITATED FIVE YEARS

The soldiers' bonus bill, which has been agitated ever since the close of the World War, finally became a law when the United States Senate, at Washington, on Monday rejected the President's veto of the measure by a vote of 59 to 26. A two-third vote was necessary. This was secured, with two votes to spare. The President had vetoed the bill because it imposes a financial burden on the country which will continue beyond the period of the present generation.

It is estimated that 3,038,283 veterans will be entitled to the insurance policies provided by the soldiers' bonus law, while 389,583 will be paid cash of $50 or less. The bill also provides for payment to dependents of deceased veterans of the amount of adjusted compensation to which they would have been entitled.

Adjusted service compensation is figured on the basis of $1 a day for home service and $1.25 a day for overseas service. The first sixty days cannot be counted. Also a maximum of 500 days will be allowed.

All veterans up to and including the rank of captain in the army and marine corps and lieutenant in the navy are eligible for the bonus.

It is estimated that the average insurance policy will be valued at $962, while the maximum value of the policies will be about $1900 for overseas service and $1600 for home service.

The value of the policy will be the equivalent of the amount which the adjusted service credit plus 25 per cent would purchase at regular insurance prices, based on 4 per cent interest compounded annually. To determine the latter computation a table of factors has been compiled by experts. Multiplication of the proper factor by the amount of adjusted service compensation due the veteran, plus 25 per cent, will give the face value of the insurance certificate. Each certificate, of course, will vary according to the length of service of the veteran and his age at the date of issuance of the policy.

Application for the bonus may be made at any time before January 1, 1928, but the cash payments will not be distributed until after next March 1.

Loans may be made on the policies up to 90 per cent of their current face value any time after two years from the date of issuance. Thus, on a $1000 policy at the end of two years a loan of $87.93 could be made. On this same policy at the end of nineteen years a loan of $831.23 would be possible. The loans may be made at any national or state bank.

Service between April 5, 1917, and July 1, 1919, may be counted in computing the adjusted service credit, altho enlistment must have been made before November 11, 1918.

A Family Reunion.

A home gathering of unusual interest was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Clevenstine, Tuesday afternoon and evening of this week. All of the boys and girls who were in the Pruner Orphanage, when the Clevenstines were in charge, and who were taken into home life of "Dad and Mother" Clevenstine when they left the orphanage, were back for the happy event. At 6 o'clock 18 persons sat down at one large table that was laden with all good things imaginable. In the center of the table stood an immense cake bearing the words, "May 20th, 1924." And what a happy time everyone had! There were originally 3 boys and 3 girls. Two of the young ladies are now graduate nurses. One of these and the third young lady are now married. Two of the boys are still in the Clevenstine home, the other is just home on a furlough, after a cruise to the West Indies, on the U. S. S. Wyoming. The following persons made up the happy party: Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Clevenstine, Miss Bertha Haverstine, of Rahway Hospital, Rahway, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Robbins, of Tyrone; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Portaris with baby Billie, of Coalport; Bruce, Wilson and Stearl Gunsallus, at home, and Harry Peters, U. S. Navy. Other relatives and friends were Mr. Clevenstine's mother, of Hublersburg; Mrs. Nitsehman, sister of Mrs. Clevenstine; Mr. and Mrs. William Weiler and "Junior," formerly of Hanover, and Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Schmidt.

WILL FORM NEW BOARD TO OPERATE HOSPITAL

Present Directors Resign to Give Successors Free Hand.

WILL CHANGE CHARTER

An important meeting of the Bellefonte Hospital Board was held in the arbitration room of the Court House last Friday evening. Members of the Kiwanis club, who participated in the recent campaign for funds, were present, and ways and means of securing the new charter, which is to change the name of the hospital from "Bellefonte Hospital" to "Centre County Hospital," were discussed.

Inasmuch as 6 weeks would have to elapse before the new charter could be legally adopted, and 3 weeks more to advertise the corporation meeting, it was suggested that the Kiwanis make up a slate of 15 names, representing the 6 districts, 2 or 3 from State College and 8 or 9 from Bellefonte, to constitute a temporary board until a meeting of the corporation members can be called which will probably be the last Friday in August. It is hoped that this board will continue to function after that date, when they can be re-elected as the Centre County Hospital Board. The reason for the large number of members from Bellefonte is that should a meeting be called to transact business at a time when inclement weather or bad roads prevents directors from attending from outside districts, a quorum could be formed by the Bellefonte members alone.

The old board has been in a delicate position, inasmuch as they hesitated to take definite action of any sort that would not be approved by the new board, and felt that the new board should have everything to do with the disposition of the money raised from the recent drive.

WIN FAME AS ARCHITECTS

Beezer Brothers, Former Spring Creek Boys, Achieve Success.

Many years ago two Bellefonte boys, born and raised "up Spring Creek" had the ambition to become architects. So, in due time they completed a course of study and hung out the shingle of their cherished profession, in Pittsburgh finally removing to Seattle in 1907, and today they are probably one of the best known firms of architects on the Pacific Coast, having offices in Seattle and San Francisco.

Last week a pamphlet reached this desk depicting some of their earlier work in Pennsylvania, and we note that such well known buildings as the Penn Traffic Co's. store in Johnstown; the Dimeling Hotel, in Clearfield; the First National Bank, of Pittsburgh; St. John's church, of Johnstown, and the Allegheny General Hospital, of Pittsburgh, and many others too numerous to mention, are numbered among their works. Given a place of honor and prominence among a large group of imposing business buildings, churches and residences designed by these two architects, is a print of a modest little house—the old Beezer homestead "up Spring Creek."

The aforementioned boys are the Beezer Brothers, Louis and Michael J. and are the sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beezer, in whose memory they gave the organ to St. John's Catholic church at this place. They are to be congratulated for reaching the top, after starting at the very bottom of the ladder.

GIRL DROWNED IN LAKE

But Miss Virginia Weber, of Howard, Escaped from Icy Water.

Miss Virginia Weber, daughter of Mrs. John Weber, of Howard, narrowly escaped death by drowning in Cayuga Lake, 5 miles north of Ithaca, N. Y., on Tuesday. Miss Ruth Brachman, aged 20 years, of Tamaqua, Pa., was drowned.

Misses Weber and Brachman, with Mariel Jones, of Dallas, Texas, all three students at the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, were canoeing when the accident happened. Miss Brachman was attempting to change her position in the canoe when it overturned, and the three students were thrown into the icy water, about 60 yards from shore. They started to swim to shore, Miss Weber and Jones reaching there safely, although exhausted, but Miss Brachman suddenly went down and did not reappear. Jones made several attempts to locate her by diving, but failed. Miss Weber and Jones were removed to a nearby hospital in a rather serious condition, but were revived by restoratives and are expected to soon recover.

Pennsylvania's Delegation Indorses Coolidge

President Coolidge was unanimously and enthusiastically indorsed for nomination at Cleveland by Pennsylvania's delegation of 79, at a caucus held in Philadelphia on Tuesday. Secretary of the Treasury A. W. Mellon was chosen chairman of the delegation.

The caucus of the national delegates, held following a meeting of the Republican State Committee to elect officers, attracted a large number of active party men from all sections of the state. Harmony and an aroused party spirit accentuated the proceedings.

Governor Pinchot, who had been invited did not attend, and Mrs. Pinchot also remained away, due presumably to the Governor's disappointment over his failure to be elected a national delegate. United States Senator David A. Reed, in a ringing address, emphasized that Pennsylvania Republicans will not forgive those who sulk in their tents and refrain from helping elect the party ticket next November.

Mrs. Hannah M. Durham, of Allentown, was chosen vice chairman of the State Committee. Hon. Harry B. Scott, of Philipsburg, Centre County's representative on the committee, attended the meeting.

The selection of Mrs. Durham for vice chairman was made upon the recommendation of Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, who was not a candidate for re-election. Mrs. Durham also had the indorsement of State Chairman W. Harry Baker and United States Senators Pepper and Reed, as well as others influential in the councils of the party.

State Chairman Baker was accorded a flattering tribute by the committee with re-election without opposition. This was in striking contrast with the stirring fight he had to wage to be elected chairman two years ago. At that time Governor Pinchot, as well as Mrs. Pinchot, put up a fight against Baker, but lost out. At the recent primary election, Baker was elected a Republican national delegate with a larger plurality than any of the six other delegates-at-large chosen to represent Pennsylvania at the Cleveland convention. The remarkable vote cast for him, in not only the large cities but the rural sections as well, was due to his personal popularity. As state chairman, Baker will be prominently identified with the Republican campaign during the fall to roll up an overwhelming vote in Pennsylvania for Coolidge for President.

Senator Pepper was re-elected as Pennsylvania's member of the Republican national committee. He accepted re-election largely because of his desire to promote harmony in the party. Some time ago he expressed the wish that he be permitted to retire from the committee upon the expiration of his term this year. Immediately there were several aspirants for the honor in the field, with prospects for a bitter clash that might lead to factional troubles later on. When this situation became known to Senator Pepper, he promptly withdrew his previous announcement and consented to again serve as national committeeman. Senator Pepper is immensely popular among Republicans throughout the state, and his re-election to the National Committee is viewed with universal approval.

CYRUS WOODS RESIGNS

Formally Relinquishes Post as Ambassador to Japan.

Considerable surprise was manifested when official announcement was made at Washington on Monday confirming reports of the resignation of Cyrus E. Woods as Ambassador to Japan. His successor has not been appointed, and Mr. Woods will remain at Tokio until the post is filled.

Mr. Woods is a brother of Dr. G. H. Woods, of Pine Grove Mills, and is quite well known in Boalsburg, where he and his wife have visited frequently. The latter's mother, Mrs. J. A. Marchand, has been ill much of the time since the recent earthquake in Japan. A few months ago Mr. and Mrs. Woods and Mrs. Marchand came to the United States from Tokio in order that Mrs. Marchand might be treated by specialists. Apparently her recovery has not been as rapid as had been hoped for.

Although Mr. Woods had achieved more or less distinction in various public positions which he had filled during the last dozen or more years, it was his heroic relief work for the Japanese people during the frightful earthquake referred to that gave him international fame. He was publicly commended by the President of the United Sistes and Secretary of State Hughes, as well as by Foreign Minister Maitsui, of Japan.

It was officially stated at Washington that the sudden retirement of Mr. Woods had no political significance, and in particular had no connection whatsoever with passage by Congress of the much-discussed Japanese exclusion emigration bill. Mr. Woods in a public address at Tokio declared that the spirit of the legislation was both unfair and unjust to the Japanese people. President Coolidge had previously urged upon Congress that the time fixed for the legislation to become operative be deferred for the present, but his recommendation was flatly rejected.

Mr. Woods has enjoyed an exceptional career in public life. He has been a member of the State Senate, resigning to become general counsel for the Pittsburgh Coal Co. He was appointed Minister to Portugal, and upon returning to this country was named Secretary of State by Governor Brumbaugh and re-appointed by Governor Sproul. Subsequently he was appointed Minister to Spain, and after about two years service there was advanced to the post of Ambassador to Japan.

SECOND TYPHOID DEATH

Mrs. W. E. Young Died Soon After Admission to Hospital.

Another death, that of Mrs. W. E. Young, has occurred as a result of the epidemic of typhoid fever which has swept Coleville and Collins Row, and 4 more patients have been admitted to the hospital in the last few days. The new patients, besides Mrs. Young, who was admitted Tuesday afternoon and died Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock, are: John Rossman, Jr., Margaret Rodavich, Robert Davis and Thurman Davis, a nephew of the Thurman Davis already there.

The hospital is filled to overflowing, the entire upper floor being given to the typhoid patients, of which there are now 21, a total of 24 having been admitted, with 2 dead and 1 discharged.

Mrs. Margaret Young was the wife of W. C. Young, and the daughter of Thomas and Mary Speece, both deceased. She was born and lived all her life in Coleville, and was 47 years old. Besides her husband she is survived by the following children: Mrs. Clarence Emenhizer, of Cedar Springs; Mrs. Mary Flack, of Julian; Mrs. Carrie Hockman, of Bellefonte, and Raymond, James, George, Clarence, Clair and Betty, all at home. She is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Fannie Emenhizer, of Yarnell; Mrs. Elizabeth Long, of Clarence, and Harry, Joseph and John Speece, all of Valley View. No definite arrangements for the funeral services have been made.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

Harvey Nelson, of Philipsburg, Died Here From Injuries.

Harvey Nelson, well-known resident of Philipsburg, died in the Bellefonte Hospital Monday from injuries received in an automobile accident nearby Snow Shoe earlier in the day. With Jack Matley and Howard Cole, also of Philipsburg, and Edward Remsnyder, of Bigler, Nelson was in a car which struck a bridge abutment, on the road between Snow Shoe and Clarence, and plunged down the embankment to the creek. Nelson was thrown out, landing on his head. His skull was fractured. He was hurried to the hospital, but died shortly afterward.

Because of reports that some of the occupants of the car had been drinking, Remsnyder was placed under bail for his appearance in court. State police also detained Matley and Cole as witnesses. They escaped injury.

Named State Librarian.

The appointment of Miss Anna A. MacDonald, an employe of the state library and museum, at Harrisburg, as acting librarian, was announced last Friday by Dr. J. George Becht, superintendent of public instruction. Miss MacDonald succeeds Dr. George P. Donehoo, who was removed from the state payroll after he had refused to accede to a request that he resign.

SNOW SHOE MURDER CASE TURNED OVER TO JURY

John Stabrylla Denied Charge of Killing Non-Union Miner.

LOOK FOR ACQUITTAL

John Stabrylla, of Clarence, an Austrian, was placed on trial in Court here on Wednesday, charged with causing the death of William Bukosky, a non-union miner, nearby Clarence, on the night of March 14th, 1922. A shanty in which Bukosky lived was blown up with dynamite, and he was killed. According to the prosecution, the dynamiting was the result of bad feeling between union and non-union miners in the Snow Shoe and Clarence region, the union men at that time being out on strike. The court room was thronged during the trial. A night session was necessary to hear the large number of witnesses called, and the case did not go to the jury until late this (Thursday) morning. A verdict had not been returned at the time of going to press. Opinion in the court room was that Stabrylla would not be found guilty.

The testimony of the prosecution was founded upon an extended investigation made by State policemen. After Stabrylla's arrest a large quantity of dynamite was found in a bag nearby his home. State police testified that Stabrylla had admitted having stated previous to the explosion that he had a bomb for the "scabs." This Stabrylla denied when he took the stand. He admitted having frequently purchased dynamite, but explained that he had used it in blasting a well at his home and blowing out stumps. He produced witnesses who stated that they had been with him when dynamite was used for that purpose. Stabrylla flatly denied having had anything to do with blowing up Bukosky's house. He swore that he was home and asleep when the explosion occurred. His wife corroborated this.

When the case was about half finished, a compulsory continuance was threatened as a result of improper testimony volunteered by a former State policeman. Stabrylla's counsel asked that a juror be withdrawn and the motion could not have been refused. Appreciating that a continuance would have meant an additional large bill of expense to the County, Judge Quigley used his good graces in effecting an adjustment whereby the motion to withdraw a juror was not pressed.

The case of Frank Auman, held on a charge of manslaughter, for causing the death of Constable Gillette at Snow Shoe on April 3, was called up in Court on Tuesday evening, and considerable surprise was evinced when, as the testimony proceeded, it became apparent that Auman was acting in self defense. The witnesses, in the order of their calling, were: Orvis Gillette, prosecutor; Dr. T. W. Thomas, of Lock Haven; Dr. E. H. Harris, Snow Shoe; Kate Schall, Mrs. Ella Josephie, a neighbor of the Schalls; Constable Gilbert Wade, Stanley Schall, and the defendant. All of the witnesses told practically the same story, which was that when Gillette who was the truant officer of the district, approached the Schall home to serve a warrant, Auman, who happened to be there, jokingly asked Gillette for a cigar, and in reply, was repeatedly struck over the face with a pair of hand-cuffs, by Gillette, until Auman, who did not attempt to strike Gillette, fled around the house, pursued by the constable.

Auman finally seized a pick, and started swinging it in front of him in self-defense. Gillette rushed him, receiving the point of the pick in his forehead. He died about 3 weeks later in the Lock Haven Hospital. The Court did not hand down a definite decision, ordering that the testimony be transcribed and brought to him for further consideration, adding, however, that it was the first impression of the Court that the decision would be justifiable homicide.

May Sessions of Court convened on Monday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

The Grand Jury was called and Harry Hutchinson, Agent at the Pennsylvania Passenger Station at Bellefonte, selected as foreman.

The civil list of cases on the trial list for the present week was then gone over and the following disposed of:

P. R. Rupp vs. J. V. Foster; assumpsit. Continued.

P. C. Shoemaker vs. State College Commission Company; assumpsit. Continued.

BLAIR COUNTY GIRL IS MURDERED IN MOUNTAIN

FIND BODIES IN AUTO

Harrisburg despatches last Sunday made known the fact of the mysterious deaths of Miss Leah Ellenberger, aged 18 years, of Hollidaysburg, and Harry Ganster, 21 years old, president of the graduating class of the High School of Marysville. Presumably both were killed by a single shot which passed through their bodies while they were in an automobile.

Miss Ellenberger, who had been visiting with relatives in Marysville, was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Ellenberger, of Hollidaysburg. The Ellenbergers are well known in and nearby Marengo and Baileyville.

The bodies of the two young persons were found on a lonely mountain road between Marysville and Carlisle, by the young man's father and an uncle of the girl. There is no doubt about murder, say authorities. At first it was thought it might have been accidental because boys camping at Lambs Gap, not far away, heard a shot about sunset, but this theory had been discarded. There are stories of Gangster incurring enmity of men by photographing stills which are not unknown in the mountains and because last year, following a fight with some youths, he led State policemen to a still barely cold. There was no robbery. Personal belongings of the pair were not even touched. No weapon was found near the automobile.

But whether the pair were shot from ambush for revenge, or jealousy was the motive for the crime nothing like it has aroused the countryside so much.

Miss Ellenberger was a school teacher at Martinsburg, Blair county. She had been visiting her uncle for the last two weeks. Ganster took her in a car to gather wild flowers late Saturday afternoon. The flowers were found in the car when the searching party, alarmed at the failure of the pair to return, came upon the machine.

The deadly bullet passed through Ganster apparently as he was stepping into the car, crushing through a small metal trench mirror in his pocket, and then through the body of the girl. Both must have been killed instantly. The bodies lay where they had fallen. Ganster tumbling into the car across the running board at the foot of his companion whose body had fallen against the seat beside the steering wheel, with the head hanging over the back.

There was no sign of a struggle or of even clothing being touched. Joseph Ganster, father of the young man, and George Albright, uncle of the girl, were together when they found the bodies and made statements which showed nothing disturbed. Mr. Ganster kept lonely vigil as the sun was rising until Albright returned with a doctor and undertaker.

Car Totally Wrecked.

The Maxwell touring car owned by Mrs. Elmer Bartley, driven by her grandson, Nevin Sommers, is a total wreck as a result of an accident which happened at the upper P. R. R. crossing, west of Milesburg, last Sunday evening. Four other Bellefonte young men were occupants of the car, fortunately none of whom were seriously injured. They were, Ruell Teaman, injuries to head and arm; William Garbrick, injuries to hip; Harry Connor, injuries to legs; Emery Croft, and Sommers, who were not injured. The young men were driving toward Bellefonte, and just as the car came to the crossing two other cars, presumably racing, approached from the opposite direction side by side, taking up the entire road, leaving Sommers the alternative of going over the bank into the creek, or swinging to the left along the railroad tracks. He selected the latter, and his car, which he admits was also being driven at a high rate of speed, flew through the air, after hitting the rails, for a distance of about 8 feet, before crashing into a telephone pole, breaking it off, and falling on its side.

Auto Accident at Bridge.

Blumer W. Shutt, right-hand-man on the Thomas Beaver farm, figured in an accident on the bridge over Bald Eagle creek at Milesburg last Sunday, that might have resulted very seriously. As he was about to enter the bridge, driving toward Bellefonte, his car skidded and landed against the bridge railing with such force that one of the occupants of the auto narrowly escaped being pitched out and into the creek. The car was towed to Bellefonte for repairs.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

WANTS HIS MARKER PAINTED BLOOD RED

Requesting that World war veterans annually repaint his monument in blood red "to act as a reminder of the blood shed by Minnesota men," John Bowe, Legionnaire and soldier of fortune of Canby, Minn., has made his last will and testament.

Bowe, whose service under colors of several nations has brought him one of the most unique fighting records in World war history, now past fifty-five, is awaiting that last call for service beyond. In the meantime he has not forgotten the sacrifices of his comrades, and by continuation of service in the American Legion has earned the admiration of the fellows for his fighting spirit.

His early life was one of hardship. In 1888 he went to Pierre, S. D., to be in at the opening of Indian lands (which did not open) and had to trek back to Deadwood on foot to secure employment. The next year he rode 500 miles through the Dakotas to Montana, on to Spokane. California, Utah, Old Mexico, saw him in what were nearly pioneer days. Service in the war with Spain followed this adventurous career.

Then abroad. Bowe visited Portugal, Spain, Italy, Morocco, Algiers, Egypt, Turkey, Palestine and Greece. He saw Cuba, Panama, Venezuela, Martinique and other Central American countries with odd and most daring of experiences practically everywhere he visited.

He is believed to be the first Minnesotan to get into the World war; in January of 1915 he enlisted in the French Foreign Legion. There he served for one cent a day until October of that year when he was wounded in the Champaigne attack near Ferme Navarin. He won the Serbian medal for bravery, the French Croix De Guerre, the fourragere of the Legion of Honor, a Congressional

John Bowe.

Medal of Honor from President McKinley, and service medals for his service in the Spanish-American war and the Philippine insurrection.

Invalided home from his French service in 1916, Bowe found he had been "sold out" for nonpayment of a mortgage on his home and was forced to start all over again. But this did not daunt him, so he set about making a new home for his wife and family, and "carrying on" for them.

Bowe was an American in the category of one who served with allied forces, and for whom special provision was made that they might enter the American Legion. He was present at the first department convention of Minnesota Legionnaires, and was chairman of the congressional district committee. Following this service Bowe went about the state organizing posts, about forty coming under his jurisdiction.

When the national convention was held in Minneapolis Bowe was named to the eligibility committee and was a member of the sub-committee which prepared the present clause setting qualifications for membership. He was a delegate to the second national convention in Cleveland, O. One year he was candidate for the post of department commander, but was defeated. At the last department convention, held in Faribault, he served on the resolutions committee.

Legion Opens Night Schools

In combating illiteracy in the state, one of the first moves of Georgia members of the American Legion is the support of night schools, where those unable to read or write can study. Bolding post of the Legion in Gainesville has opened such a school, which will have the services of instructors of the Gainesville high school.

OPPOSE COMMUNISTS

"I AM not an alarmist," said Dr. Hubert N. Rowell, deputy grand exalted ruler of the B. P. O. Elks, in addressing members of the Berkeley (Cal.) post of the American Legion. "I have not come here to paint with red the azure skies. I am a loyal supporter of constituted government, and I am here to tell you of a need for a determined fight against communists and allied forces."

He said that there are 15 recognized leaders of radicals in the United States. Under the direction of these crafty men are 1,500 sectional leaders, and beneath them are the followers of the movement. "The United States is a clearing house for radicalism with every ship bringing more radicals and more of their destructive literature," he said.

"At present these radicals are raising a fund of $2,000,000 in California, Nevada and Oregon for the purpose of carrying on their work of disrupting government," he declared. In closing, the speaker called upon the men of the Legion to again take up defense of their country against the menacing forces of I. W. W. radicals and communists."

FAILED TO CONFORM WITH BODY'S POLICY

Daylight Post, 229, Department of California, the American Legion, was suspended not because of its expressed views about adjusted compensation, but because its membership did not conform to the legally adopted policies of the national and department organizations. This is the announcement made by Morgan Keaton, adjutant of the California department, who has written posts in the principal cities of the country explaining the stand of the officials.

The post went on record as unfavorable to passage of the adjusted compensation measure, and Department Commander James F. Collins promptly suspended the post and called for surrender of its charter until the department had time to act. The executive committee sanctioned this act of the commander.

Post officials have since announced that they will take their fight for reinstatement to the national organization, but the matter must first be considered by the department convention.

Keaton's letter to other posts of the organization, says:

"This suspension should not be confused as any attempt on the part of the State department to repress or coerce Daylight post, or is the question or adjusted compensation involved; nor is the question of free speech involved; but is simply to be clearly understood to mean that Daylight post or any other post must agree to conform with the legally adopted policies of the American Legion or withdraw therefrom. A man or post cannot serve two masters or support two opposite causes. If Daylight post wishes to oppose adjusted compensation it has that right, and its method in doing so is to withdraw and join those who are opposed to it, because the Legion favors the adjusted compensation as a result of deliberations in five national conventions, and there every unit belonging to the Legion must of necessity adopt the same policy."

Veterans Are Urged to Beware of Sharpers

The American Legion is warning all veterans against paying any fees to attorneys who offer to secure a certificate issued in lieu of lost discharge. In a recent letter from Watson B. Miller, chairman of the Legion's national rehabilitation committee, instances were mentioned where unscrupulous attorneys were seeking fees for this work, when the government furnishes the certificates without charge.

Mr. Miller advises all veterans to either apply direct to the adjutant general of the army or to write the service bureau of the American Legion, 417 Bond building, Washington, who will handle the case without charge.

Bridgeton (N. J.) Post to Aid New Hospital

Shoemaker post of the American Legion in Bridgeton, N. J., received a bequest of $4,000 from the father of the man for whom the post was named, with the request that it be used for erecting a memorial building.

The Legionnaires, impressed with the possibilities for service to the community offered by erection of a new hospital in Bridgeton, authorized the turning over of this bequest to the building fund for the institution. The generosity of the Legionnaires will be marked by a special room dedicated to the men who gave their lives during the World war.

Legion Men as Scout Leaders

A class of 25 Legionnaires are busy in Bloomington, Ill., receiving instruction from scout leaders so that they may take charge of troops of boy scouts in that city. The Legion in Illinois is greatly interested and Louis E. Davis post of Bloomington, one of the strongest posts in the state, will sponsor practically all troops in that city, which are to be in charge of the Legion.

FROCKS FOR LITTLE LADIES; NEW FROCKS FOR AFTERNOON

THIS pretty frock for a little girl who is about to take part in some great occasion, as a wonderful dancing party or a wedding, is one of many equally delightful dresses designed for the younger girls. It just happens to have charms of its own that are a little different from the charms of others of its kind.

Georgette appears to be almost unrivaled for little ladies' dress-up frocks, with taffeta next to it and fine voile in the running. Georgette and narrow satin ribbons assume all responsibility for the beauty of the frock shown here and have made a fine performance. It has a double skirt, the underskirt bordered with ribbon and the overskirt scalloped and bound with it. There are plain ribbon shoulder straps, and arm bands made of ribbon loops, a girdle of twisted ribbon finished with a rosette and hanging ends—and finally little ribbon flowers set on the shoulder straps and arm bands, in the rosette and hanging ends. This model would be very pretty made up in any of the light colors in plain voile.

CREATION IN GEORGETTE

Few skirts are as full as the fluffy affair pictured but there are many frocks in which the skirts are covered with narrow ruffles, edged with tiny val lace edging, which gives them a full effect. Rows of shirrings are liked for a trimming on voile dresses and narrow laces in frills are used in many ways on all fabrics. Organdie is a lovely medium for making frills and is much used on voile frocks. The edges are picoted with silk in colors which may be contrasting. Cross-stitch embroidery is very effectively used in voile frocks.

As welcome as the flowers in May—and almost as varied—are the lovely afternoon frocks that come trooping in at the same time. They are the beloved garments that reflect our joy in the good old summertime, and they do it by means of many dainty, colorful fabrics. Some of these are not used at any other season—so that there is great diversity of style and beauty in summer frocks for leisure hours. Crepe de chine and other crepes, foulard and various printed silks, taffeta, satin, georgette, lace net, organdie and voile, together with novelty fabrics, make up the inspiring company of mediums used for gowns that are also greatly varied in design.

Among delightful new arrivals there are black satin models in straightline frocks, finished off with collars and vests of white organdie. Deep yokes of ecru or cream lace and long inserted panels of lace, with black satin one-piece dresses have scored a wonderful success since their recent coming out. In the sheerer materials like georgette and crepe de chine simple, straightline dresses are given distinction by rows of tucks, an inch or more wide, that cover skirts and tunics; or scant, overlapping ruffles, about three inches wide and having picot edges, may answer the same purpose. Plaitings, in tiers and panels, are featured in frocks made of the soft crepes while those of printed silk seem to inspire their designers to indulge in draperies. Sleeves appear to know no middle ground—they either come just a little way down over the top of the arm, or go its entire length. One of the long-sleeved models is pictured.

Two fabrics are combined in this dignified model—a plain and an embroidered crepe. The movement toward fuller skirts is to be noted in the shirred apron front, bordered with the embroidered crepe. Back of this there are panels of the same material, which also serves to make the front of the bodice and the deep, flaring cuffs on the sleeves. A girdle of plain crepe is provided with a telling color note in the handsome beaded ornament placed at the front. Both narrow and wide beaded girdles are important in afternoon and evening modes and an elaborate girdle (beaded or otherwise) lifts an unpretentious frock into the formal class.

State Parks Grow Rapidly in Favor

"A Park Every Hundred Miles" Is National Slogan.

Washington, D. C.—"City parks and national parks are well enough known; now enters the state park, which, in popularity, bids fair to rival its older park sisters," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The forthcoming national conference on state parks, at Gettysburg, Pa., will emphasize the rapidly multiplying uses of these state reservations," the bulletin points out.

"Many visitors are expected to attend the conference, both because of the varied program touching upon so many phases of outdoor life, and also because the conference is meeting at one of the most famous battlefields of modern times, notable for its memorials to the men of both the North and the South who fell there, and also for the scenic beauty of the panorama of knolls and hillsides that form the Gettysburg state reservation.

"A Park Every One Hundred Miles."

"The rapid growth of these parks makes the slogan 'a park every hundred miles' seem not so impossible as it sounds. Twenty-six states now have their own park systems, and these parks range from the vast Adirondack park, in New York state, with more than three million acres, to the one-acre sand bar in the Connecticut river, which is Dart Island State park, of Connecticut.

"Michigan leads all the states in the number of its state-owned parks, with thirty such reservations. Connecticut, though one of the smallest states, is second, with twenty-five parks.

"Then comes New York, with twenty-two parks; Minnesota, with seventeen; Pennsylvania, with fourteen; while Iowa, with its thirteen reservations, to which it invites tourists to repair 'from prairie land to fairyland,' is the leader of the state park movement in the Middle West.

"Havens for the tourist are afforded in increasing numbers of the state parks; some of them offer camping places for the entire vacation period. In Wisconsin the city dweller can rent an island for a nominal sum, and play Swiss Family Robinson for several weeks.

"Many of the best known state parks embody world renowned scenic features—notably Niagara falls, New York. They furnish a panorama of the varied physical features our country possesses—from the curiously modeled gorges of Mashamoquet Brook State park, of Connecticut, to the tropical setting of the Royal Palm State park, of Florida, less than fifty miles southwest of Miami.

"Historic and literary shrines are preserved, as in Lincoln's home, in the Old Salem State park, of Illinois, and in James Whitcomb Riley's 'old swimmin' hole' on an Indiana reservation. Indiana also preserves in some of her parks her magnificent waterfalls, which fact may be an item of news to many travelers whose knowledge of her geography is confined to car-window observations on transcontinental trips.

When Illinois Was Under Ocean.

"Starved Rock park, in Illinois, perpetuates far older history than that to be found in textbooks—its limestone formations date back to a period when America's inland was the floor of a sea.

"Tropical jungle, the giant redwood trees of California, the sand dunes of Indiana, waterfalls, lovers' lanes, the jeweled lakes of Minnesota, the mountain outlooks of Connecticut—these are a few of the wonder spots which states have set aside for the use of all their people and as a heritage for their children.

"If you take Noah Webster's word for it, a park used to be 'an enclosed piece of ground stocked with beasts of the chase, held by prescription or the king's grant.' The idea of the state parks conference seems to be that today a park is 'an unenclosed piece of ground stocked with beasts, trees, flowers, or other scenic features, not to be destroyed, but held by prescription of the people for their own use.'

"The annual conference this year to be held during the last week of May at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, will consider the development of the many uses of these state parks.

"Their value as game refuges, for camping and nature study, extension of trails for hiking, establishments of more museums for preserving specimens, and their wider use in scientific study will be considered.

"Each year finds new state recruits in the movement for state park systems. In Kentucky the legislature has just passed a measure creating a state park commission. Three proposed sites for parks in the Blue Grass state are the place near Bardstown, where Stephen Foster wrote 'My Old Kentucky Home,' the place of Lincoln's birth, near Hodgenville, and Mammoth cave."

Find Ailanthus Tree Makes Splendid Pulp

Madison, Wis.—Officials of the United States forest products laboratory here announce discovery of what is declared to be an excellent and valuable pulp wood from the ailanthus tree, otherwise known as the "tree of heaven." A half-cord of ailanthus wood was sent to the laboratory from the Pennsylvania state department of forestry for experimental purposes. Officials declare it developed into a high-grade of book paper.

SCIENCE EXPECTS TO CONQUER INSANITY

Finds Way to Rejuvenate Mankind by Treatment.

Washington.—Science is approaching mastery over insanity, old age and other ills through study of the endocrine glands and discovery of means of their control, Dr. William J. A. Bailey of New York declared in a paper at a session of the American Chemical society.

Describing development of basic knowledge about endocrine radiation with the gamma ray as being of transcending importance to the human race, Doctor Bailey, who is director of the American Endocrine laboratories, declared "we have cornered aberration, disease, old age and, in fact, life and death themselves in the endocrines."

"If we look more to the endocrine glands and less to the head," he said, "we have an excellent chance of eradicating insanity.

"In and around these glands," he added, "must center future efforts toward human rejuvenation, a goal for which the world has sought and one which now seems to be truly realized."

Study of the principles involved in endocrine ionization, said Doctor Bailey, has placed science on the threshold of a new era.

"We have too long regarded insanity as purely a brain condition," he declared. "Its seat is unquestionably in the endocrine glands, which absolutely control every brain function.

"No greater truth has been vouchsafed to mankind than that these lowly masses of colloidal ooze regulate all body activity, down to the tiniest cell. I am satisfied, from clinical experience, that a method of endocrine ionization is now available whereby we can definitely, practically without exception, retard the progress of senescence and give a new lease of relatively normal functioning power to those whose sun of life is slowly sinking into the purple shadows of that longest night.

"Rejuvenation means more today than any other subject that can concern a man or woman. The wrinkled face, the drawn skin, the dull eye, the listless gait, the faulty memory, the aching body, the destructive effects of sterility, all spell imperfect endocrine performance."

Finds a $500 Diamond in a $2.04 Chicken

Gloversville, N. Y.—John Antillo, a local barber, made a profit of $497.96 through the purchase of a chicken for $2.04—and his deal was perfectly legitimate.

He purchased the chicken at a market and, while cleaning the crop, out rolled a diamond estimated to be worth $500.

The "home town" of the chicken is not known, it having arrived alive as part of a shipment from various parts of the state.

Where Whites Settled

The state of Maine has bought the military reservation at Fort Popham, said to be the site of the first white settlement on the Maine coast. The land will be held for public use and eventually developed into a park by the state, according to present plans.

"What about your nephew, Elrod, who used to drink so heavily?" asked Beenaway, who had just returned to the old home town.

Mrs. Tracey B. Griswold, speaking in behalf of the Daily Vacation Bible schools, said that Tony came to the Bible school and was asked where his parents were born.

"Italy," said Tony, "but I'm American—I was born here."

"Father and mother used to go to the Italian church," said Tony. "Now we are Americans and we don't go nowhere."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Penn's Words of Wisdom

Above all things endeavor to bring children up in the love of virtue, and that holy plain way of it which we have lived in, that the world in no part of it get into my family. I had rather they were homely than finely bred as to outward behavior; yet I love sweetness mixed with gravity, and cheerfulness tempered with sobriety.—William Penn.

DOLEZAL, 1201 Garber Ave., Lincoln, Nebraska.

Felt Better At Once

Volga City, Iowa.—"I will tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was all run down and could hardly be on my feet. I was so cold I could not keep warm. I had numb feelings and then heat flashes would pass over my body. I had severe pains in my sides and was very nervous. I saw your advertisement in the newspapers so I thought I would try your medicine. My husband got me a bottle of the Vegetable Compound and I began to feel better as soon as I started taking it. I have taken it off and on for three years now. I keep house and do all my work for my husband and two little boys and make my garden. I feel fine and I tell others what the medicine has done for me. I think it is the best medicine in the world for women."—Mrs. THOMAS GRINDLE, Volga City, Iowa.

Can Do Any Kind of Work

Fouke, Arkansas.—"I had the 'Flu' and after that I had a pain in my side and was not able to do my work I was so weak. I found an advertisement in a paper and it told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would do, and I took it. Now I can do any kind of work I want to. I think every family ought to keep it in the house all the time and I intend to do so."—Mrs. DORA PHILYAW, R.R. No. 2, Fouke, Arkansas.

Over 100,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

98 per cent of these replies are "Yes."

This shows that 98 out of every 100 women who take this medicine for the ailments for which it is recommended are benefited by it.

This goes to prove that a medicine specialized for certain definite ailments—not a cure-all—can and does do good work. For sale by druggists everywhere.

The Calves' Chorus

During the winter of 1920-21 I taught school in an Oklamoha district. I had been trying to teach the children to sing, and thought I was making headway. One cold morning small Raymond came in and, looking around rather surprised, said, "I thought I was late."

"No," I told him, "you are not late; you are in plenty of time."

"I sure thought I was late," he repeated. "Guess I heard Masterson's calves a-bawlin'. I thought you all was singin'."—Capper's Weekly.

A DEATH TRAP.

Attention of the proper authorities is called to a dangerous condition at the bridge over Bald Eagle creek, at Milesburg. Motorists driving toward Bellefonte experience difficulty in entering the bridge, and during the last few weeks several serious accidents have happened at that point. In one or two instances motorists have had miraculous escapes from being plunged headlong over the abutment, or the bridge railing, into Bald Eagle creek, which is very deep. The entrance to the bridge is at a sharp turn in the road and at the top of a rather steep grade. Drivers are forced to apply additional power to ascend the grade, and often they find it impossible to make the turn, which is nearly at right angles. It is a situation due entirely to the physical location of the bridge and also of the State highway, and in the circumstances it is difficult to see how either could very well be changed. Greater safeguards could, however, be installed, and this should be done without another day's delay. The entrance to the bridge at this time is nothing less than a death trap.

DURANT WILL RACE

Multi-Millionaire Auto Manufacturer to Contest at Altoona.

Cliff Durant, the multi-millionaire patron of racing, has sent in his official entry blank for the 250-mile international classic to be held Saturday, June 14, on the famous Altoona speedway.

The car piloted by Durant in the great speed event is the most costly creation in the automotive industry. Harry Miller, widely known designer of speed cars, built the machine especially for him in his factory at Los Angeles at a cost believed to be in the immediate neighborhood of $30,000, a price more than $10,000 above that paid for any motor car previously.

Durant's entry caused a sensation, as word had been received from sources in California, where the millionaire makes his home, that he intended departing immediately after the Indianapolis race for a lengthy tour of the South Sea Islands in his new steam yacht. It has been repeatedly rumored that he intended making this a honeymoon trip following his expected marriage to a prominent screen actress, whose name has been kept secret.

The only son of the great motor magnate, Durant has been surrounded with luxury all his life, and travels to the different races with a suite of personal attendants and mechanicians. He is acknowledged to be the greatest patron of automobile racing, and his team of cars, which was disbanded last fall after the inaugural race in Altoona, was one of the biggest winning combinations in the annals.

ANNOUNCE 2YR. SCHEDULE

State Game Commission Plans Enlarging Some Preserves.

Due to an enormous increase in the number of Pennsylvanians who enjoy hunting as an outdoor recreation, the reduction of desirable game territory through the inroads of civilization, and a rapid elimination of sources from which game for stocking purposes can be obtained the Board of Game Commissioners is determined to give native Pennsylvania game and other desirable wild life still better protection, also aid in furnishing more public hunting territory. To this end the Board has adopted the following program for the next 2 years:

1.—Secure co-operation of sportsmen in passing bond issue for purchase of wild lands for forest and recreational purposes, also more extensive game and wild bird food and cover planting campaigns.

2.—Creation of at least 200 Auxiliary State Game Refuges with public hunting grounds around them to supplement present refuge system. (Now have 9 Auxiliary Refuges.)

3.—Further extension of Regular Game Refuge System, including migratory waterfowl refuges, surrounded by public hunting grounds. (Now have 32 regular upland game refuges.)

4.—Much more extensive but safely conducted vermin control campaigns exclusively under the direction of the Board, including employment of additional trapping instructors and such other agencies as may be necessary to reduce game destroyers.

5.—More extensive winter feeding of game and wild birds.

6.—Aid landowners and sportsmen to break up unsportsmenlike practices and bring about better understanding and co-operation.

7.—Aid in overcoming depredations from game by transfer from sections where destroying crops.

8.—A comprehensive lecture program throughout the State on the value of all wild life, including song and insectivorous birds.

9.—A more extensive general educational campaign concerning the activities of the Board, especially quarterly reports to interested organizations and the general public.

STATE'S NEW COMMANDANT

Col. McLaughlin to Succeed Capt. Febiger in September.

President John M. Thomas announced this week that Lieutenant Colonel Clenard McLaughlin, now stationed at Fort Leavenworth, has been detailed through war department orders to take charge of the Pennsylvania State college department of military science and tactics next September. He will succeed Captain George L. Febiger, who has had charge of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit at the college for the past year.

Colonel McLaughlin enlisted in the army as a private in 1897 and served through the Spanish-American war, coming out a sergeant. He remained with the army and became a captain in 1911. In 1918 he was made a major. Two years later he received the rank of lieutenant colonel. He is now in a special command and general staff school at Leavenworth. College officials are well pleased with his appointment to take charge of the student military training.

Captain Febiger will attend the summer military camp at Camp Meade and in the fall will report for duty at the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga. He first came to Penn State in 1920 and succeeded Major M. M. Welty as commandant.

cases, assumpsit. Called for trial, but settled.

Commonwealth vs. Thomas Smeal, serious statutory charge. Verdict guilty.

Helen T. Broadbent vs. A. T. Sellers, trespass, growing out of an automobile collision on the highway between State College and Lemont. Verdict on Tuesday for the plaintiff for $200.

Cyrus F. Hoy vs. Joel S. Royer and John Hockman; trespass, growing out of an automobile collision nearby Zion between the truck of Mr. Hockman in the employ of the Township Supervisors, and the automobile of the plaintiff on April 12. The plaintiff, enroute to Zion, was on a down grade and when he applied the brakes something snapped. He afterward discovered that the rear axle in his coupe had broken, but admitted that he did not try to use the emergency brake. The defendants, with the truck, were at the bridge north of Zion where they had been loading plank, but had no light. Council for the defendant moved the Court for compulsory non-suit; for the reason that the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence, which was granted.

Edward M. Gehret vs. James From; assumpsit to recover for erecting a barn and making other repairs on the premises of the defendant in Potter Township. The plaintiff charged 75c per hour for carpenter work, claiming $493.87, and giving a credit of $1.17. The defendant contended that the agreement was for 65c an hour. Plaintiff showed by his evidence that he paid his carpenters 65c per hour, and one of them 70c per hour and could not have made an agreement at 65c per hour. Verdict for plaintiff for $422.70, with interest from Jany. 3, 1923.

William Stuart, surviving administrator of Harry S. Stuart, deceased, vs. Mrs. Elias Edmiston; ejectment. Settlement agreed upon, finding in favor of the plaintiff for the land described to wit; plaintiff pay $400 on or before August 1, 1924 with stay of execution in the meantime; plaintiff to pay record costs and each party to pay his own witness bill.

REVISE MILK PRICES

Dairymen's League Reduces May Figures to Producers.

By authority of the Board of Directors of the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, Inc., the schedule of producers' prices originally recommended for May milk has been revised, as follows:

Class 1—(fluid milk) price $2.33, reduced to $1.86.

Class 2—A (cream) $1.90, plus skim milk value, reduced to $1.70.

Class 2—B (plain condensed and ice cream), $2.05, reduced to $1.85.

Class 2—C (soft cheeses), $2.05, reduced to $1.85.

Class C—(evaporated, sweetened condensed and milk powder and hard cheese other than American), $1.60.

Class 4 A—(butter). Same as usual.

Class 4—B (American cheese). Same as usual.

These prices are for 3% milk at the 201-210 mile zone, with the usual differentials for freight, butterfat and quality.

It was necessary to make the changes in the schedule in order to harmonize the prices with changing market conditions and to meet the competition of non-pool buying dealers who have cut far below their April prices.

POOL PRICES FOR APRIL.

The Dairymen's League Co-operative Association's gross pool price for 3% at the 201-210 mile freight zone for April is $1.835 for 100 pounds, with 8½ cents deduction for expenses and 5 cents for certificates of indebtedness. The net pool prices, therefore, is $1.75 and the cash payment is $1.70.

Kiwanis News.

The regular Tuesday luncheon of the Kiwanis was held at the Bush House, and among the guests were Squires Hancock, Byron and Hoffman of Philipsburg, Rev. Reed O. Steely, and representatives of three local newspapers. The fact that the Red Cross is no longer able to support the community nurse, was brought out by Kiwanian W. Harrison Walker, who suggested that Kiwanis take the responsibility for a month, at least, until the great need of her service is over. The suggestion was unanimously approved. Rev. Steely gave a short talk, in which he expressed appreciation of the community for the work of the Kiwanis in putting over the hospital drive. The picture of the club, taken by Kiwanian Ralph Mallory, was passed around and heartily endorsed. Next week the club will be the hosts of the G. A. R. veterans at a special Memorial dinner.

Hi-Y Banquet.

The Hi-Y boys, at their last meeting, decided to hold a closing banquet on Thursday evening, May 22. This is the first big social event for their members this season. Their guests will be the leaders and men from State College who have given them addresses during the past season. They are taking an interest in the foreign Y. M. C. A. work for boys and at their last meeting voted to contribute $20 toward this work. A booth was conducted on circus day to help raise money for their treasury.

POINTERS FOR FARMERS

Timely Suggestions by State Department of Agriculture.

Many inquiries are coming to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture for information about Soy beans, indicating there is a new interest in this legume.

Wilt in cabbage can be overcome by using seed of varieties that are wilt resistant.

Early potatoes, like the Irish Cobbler should have a quick-acting fertilizer to obtain a good set of early tubers.

Kill the plant lice on the rose bush. Later in the season the plant lice will go to the potatoes and tomatoes, causing heavy losses.

Unles fruit sprays are applied at the proper time, their effectiveness is greatly reduced. Codling moth spray should be put on when nearly all the petals have fallen.

Seed potatoes should be planted as soon as cut. Experiments show that delaying planting after cutting the spuds materially reduces the yield.

Indian corn, potatoes and tobacco are American products. Corn the king of American crops, and the potato, a native of South America, are the greatest food gifts this continent has given to the world.

Penn State Agricultural Notes

The Penna. State Department of Agriculture offers the following tips to farmers:

DANGER OF BLOATING.

To reduce danger of bloating, cattle and sheep should be given a good fill of dry feed, particularly roughage, before they are turned on green forage, such as red clover or alfalfa. If some dry roughage is convenient for them in the pasture they often correct, of their own accord, tendencies to bloat. Dew and rain increase the danger of bloating.

APPLE INSECTS.

Be sure to hit the apple red bug in the calyx spray. Don't wait for them to arrive. Use one pint of nicotine in 100 gallons of dilute summer strength lime sulphur, adding arsenate of lead to control the coddling moth.

SOILING CROPS.

Now is the time to plan for soiling crops to help out when pastures get short next summer. Oats and pears will thrive, give good yields and make a good crop for soiling purposes. Any surplus makes an excellent quality of hay. A field of corn convenient to the barn or pasture will be found useful for green feed for the dairy herd for late summer. Stowells Evergreen Sweet is a good variety for this purpose.

PEACH MOTH.

The oriental peach moths are emerging. They must be controlled now or never. Apply the spray when the shucks are about two-thirds dropped. Add arsenate of lead for the curculio. Do not mistake the case-bearers for the oriental peach moth caterpillar. The former will be flying about the time apples are blossoming. They will be taken care of by the usual arsenical sprays.

Philipsburg Nurses Graduated.

Diplomas were given to the following nurses who were graduated from the Philipsburg State Hospital last Thursday evening: Miss Catherine M. Scovern, Osceola Mills; Miss Annad. McGuire and Miss Alice D. Barret, Hazleton; Miss Olive B. Kalloway, Morrisdale; Miss Bernice H. Wooster, Drifting, and Miss Frances H. Houck, Philipsburg.

Child Injured by Auto.

Elizabeth Bowers, 8 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vinton Bowers, of Philipsburg, was run down by an automobile and painfully injured last Sunday. The car was driven by Charles Hugg, of the Gnelich Ford agency, at Philipsburg. The accident was said to have been unavoidable.

Thomas Mosier, game warden, accompanied by Warden Gramley, of Millheim, rounded up several owners of deer-chasing dogs, in that section last week, and collected $25 in fines.

The School Board of Centre Hall recently secured a large tract of land, upon which to erect a new high school building. The plot is about 5 acres in extent, and is sufficiently large to accommodate an athletic field and playground.

The car of L. P. Bower was struck by another auto, owned by Ralph Haines, and considerably damaged, recently. Mr. Bower, of near Millheim, was taking his children home from the Millheim High School, at the time. None of the occupants of either car was injured.

The recent rains so swelled the waters of Elk creek as to cause the dam to give way at D. B. Weaver's Sons' mills at Wolfe's Store. When the swirling waters struck the old dam a hole about 30 feet wide was made in the breast. The owners will rebuild as soon as weather conditions permit.

The Harter Brothers' saw mill near Greenbriar, was completely destroyed by fire, recently. A watchman had made his rounds, a short time before the flames were discovered, but saw nothing unusual. Although no lumber was burned, the mill was a total loss. The damage was estimated by the owners at $3,000, of which one third is covered by insurance.

"Andy" Lytle, of State College has presented the Y. M. C. A., with a plot of ground at the base of Tussey Mountain for the purpose of erecting a "Y" hut, within convenient hiking distance of the College. Present plans call for a log building a story and a half high, with seating capacity for about 75 persons and sleeping accommodations on the second floor for about 36

TRACK MEET WINNERS

Academy Second, Losing First Place by Single Point.

At the inter-scholastic track meet last Saturday afternoon at State College, Bellefonte schools rather distinguished themselves by placing in several events and breaking several records, and this despite the fact that they were pitted against some of the best schools in the state. In the one-mile relay, even the strong Harrisburg Tech team was outclassed, the time being 3 minutes, 37 seconds breaking the records. This event was won by Dickinson Seminary, Bellefonte High taking third place, which is no mean achievement, in view of the opposition they faced. Bellefonte Academy walked away with second honors having one point less than Harrisburg Tech, who won the meet with a total of 25 points. Welch, of the Academy, broke two records, in the javelin and discus throws, and Gwinn smashed the record for the hammer throw. Welch was also the high individual point winner of the meet, scoring 20 points, and winning 4 first places.

Dull Man Good Citizen

I am often impressed with the great numbers of dull people who get along well. The dullest man I know is a good citizen, a good husband and father, and a useful man. He isn't able to write, or make a speech, but he is able to behave, and work, and save, and be honest and polite; and these are the essentials. Hundreds of brighter men laugh at him, none of whom get along as well as he does. It is easy to behave, and work, and be honest, and make a living, however hard it may be to paint a great picture, write a great book, or become great in statesmanship.—E. W. Howe's Monthly.

Story of the Vision Beautiful

By EDWARD LEVINE

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"IS THAT your little daughter upstairs?" I asked the Ewings.

Next moment I regretted having asked that question. An expression of incredulity came on Ewing's face, of pain on his wife's.

"There's no child upstairs," muttered Ewing.

I said no more. It was at the dinner table, and one can't flatly contradict one's host. I had never been in the Ewing house before. They were new friends of mine, though afterward they became dear ones. They had a big, old-fashoined home in the country, and after we had met at the beach hotel they invited me with them to spend the week end.

I had understood they had no children. Some neighbor's child, or perhaps a servant's, I supposed, who had strayed in. Only—here was the odd thing—there were toys scattered everywhere about the big, well-lit room that I had strayed into.

A child's room. Had they lost a little one? That might account for it. A servant's child, no doubt—the Ewings kept five. It had been a tactless remark that I had made.

But what a lovely child! And how radiantly she had smiled at me when she turned her head at my entrance. I had wanted to caress her, to smooth the fair hair flying about her shoulders. But I am shy with children.

And then the little one had been so busy with her toys, playing, after that first, smiling glance at me, as if she had not seen me, or had forgotten me. She played so nicely, too. She put the blocks so quietly one on top of the other. I had anticipated some delightful hours with her, for I am fond of children.

And I had quietly withdrawn to my room and washed for dinner, and then gone down, to ask that tactless question.

I saw reproof in the eyes of old Aunt Mary, a formidable dowager, a sister of Mrs. Ewing. The other guests—three of them—did not seem to see anything queer in the situation.

Aunt Mary and I had a little talk that night. After a while I was encouraged to speak of my tactlessness.

"But whose can the child have been?" I asked.

"They lost a child," she answered.

"You mean—?" I was horrified.

"Yes. Others have seen her sometimes, playing up there. Mr. Ewing obstinately asserts that it is all imagination, but I think he believes it, too. His wife has never seen her, and that's what breaks her heart. She only hears of her from others."

"You believe that?"

"Didn't you see her?"

I had no more to say. Aunt Mary continued:

"It is very pitiful and tragic. You see, the parents were rigid disciplinarians. They brought her up in the mistaken idea that children must be forced to obey. And little Doris was willful. And obstinate. They tried to break her will. They whipped her. They thought they were doing right by her.

The mother whipped her the day before she was taken ill with scarlet fever—whipped the obstinate little thing and sent her supperless to bed. Ten days later she was dead.

"She thinks the reason why she has never seen her is because she whipped her. It nearly kills her when others say they have seen her. Mr. Ewing, as I said, pretends not to believe. Don't say another word—"

"No. I'm sorry I blundered into this," I answered, still half-incredulous. "Have you seen her?"

"Oh, yes, heaps of times, but she never seems to notice—just goes on playing with her toys. They left that room just as it was after she died."

When I left Aunt Mary Mrs. Ewing came up to me in a hesitant sort of way.

"You—you know now?" she whispered piteously.

"Yes, I know, and I'm so sorry," I answered. "She was a dear, beautiful little girl."

"If I could see her—only once," moaned the mother.

"I knew her secret sorrow, of course, but I couldn't let her know what Aunt Mary had told me.

"If I could believe she's happy—"

"Why," I said, "her smile was radiant!"

"Her smile!" She looked at me earnestly. Then a smile came on her own face—a smile of utter happiness, just like the little girl's.

"Her smile? It is the first time she has been seen smiling. I shall be happier now."

I know how much that means to her.

Missing

"By the way," musingly asked Professor Pate, "what has become of the grand marshal of the day, who used to wear a broad red sash over one shoulder and down across his palpitating abdomen, with its fringed ends flapping, and rode on the top side of a tall and snorting steed alongside of the parade, cavalcade, or whatever the ballyho was called, and galloped up to its head and dropped back, and so on, all the while giving orders to which nobody ever seemed to pay the slightest attention?—Kansas City Star.

'Mushers' of North in Constant Peril

Face Death Hourly From Intense Alaska Cold.

Nenana, Alaska.—The "musher" in the arctic circle, where winter prevails about eight months out of the year, must never relax his vigilance if he would survive the perils peculiar to the region.

To the explorer, prospector, scientist, trapper or hauler of mail and supplies who must go north of the Yukon river basin, one of the greatest winter hazards is the lack of timber for firewood. In some localities the only timber is aspen, commonly called poplar, scrub spruce and stunted brush.

When a man faces 50 degrees below zero in sleeping bag and canvas tent, he requires a big log fire and abundant fuel to keep it going. When the Arctic blizzard sweeps down, man and beast are compelled to seek shelter.

In the bitterest cold few lungs can withstand the "scorching" atmosphere that appears to sear them like a flame while the blood is turning to ice. "Frozen" lungs are not uncommon, but there are certain precautions that minimize the danger.

Equipment for Journey.

The equipment includes three pairs of heavy woolen socks on each foot; underwear and shirt of wool, but of medium weight; mittens augmented by buckskin slipovers and a drill parka, its hood faced with wolverine fur, which does not gather frost and freeze where the breath strikes it. The muskrat or beaver cap has flaps to pull down over the ears and under the chin. The shoes frequently are moose hock mukluks.

At no time must any portion of the flesh save the eyes be exposed to the frost, and even the eyes must be protected when facing a blizzard. Travelers usually augment this "light" equipment with a complete suit of reindeer furs.

Submission to the cold of the Arctic has a different effect than might be imagined. Instead of a shivering and a gradual agonizing process of freezing, the frost overcomes one suddenly and almost painlessly.

There is a numbness in the more exposed portions, like the feet, legs and hands. Later the jaw becomes stiff, nearly immobile. A minute's exposure of a partly cold hand to low temperatures causes the fingers to become stiff and without feeling. It is as if they had gone to sleep. The man in danger of death from freezing is overtaken by a rather pleasant lethargy.

A danger is found in becoming overheated and then tarrying to cool off. Even when the temperature is 50 below, one's body perspires if all orifices of the clothing are closed. If there are any holes in the equipment, the cold penetrates like the flame from a blowpipe, boring in rather than spreading.

How Death Steals on Them.

One may have a spot the size of a dime frozen on a finger where there is a hole in glove or mitten, and the rest of the hand then becomes numb. In stopping for rest, the uninitiated often tarry too long, and on arising wonder why the limbs refuse to function with their wonted suppleness. After several such halts, further progress becomes a struggle, and unless a fire is available immediately the chances of freezing are great.

Frozen hands or toes are treated in the time-honored way of rubbing them with snow until the circulation is restored.

Horses used to carry outfits into the interior of Alaska are protected from lung freezing by a covering like a nose bag, through which the air is filtered of its biting frost before it is breathed. Nature further guards these horses by causing the hair on them to grow until by spring they resemble fur-bearing animals.

The volume was bought in London by Jefferson, according to the history written on the fly-leaf in the handwriting of Quarles.

Greece Offers to Lend U. S. Statue of Hermes

Geneva.—As a mark of esteem for American democracy, Greece, the youngest republic in the world, has offered to lend the American people one of the most beautiful of statues, bequeathed to her by antiquity—"Hermes Carrying the Infant Dionysus," the masterpiece of Praxiteles, the famous Greek sculptor of the Fifth century.

Lowell's Fly

The small boy is much the same today as he was yesterday—and probably he will be much the same tomorrow. His nature does not change with the ages. In the extracts from Mrs. James T. Fields' diary, collected by Mr. M. A. DeWolfe Howe and published as the "Memoirs of a Hostess," James Russell Lowell is quoted as relating some experiments that the boys at his school used to make on flies to see how much weight they could carry.

One day he attached a thread that he had pulled out of his silk handkerchief to a fly's leg, and to the other end a bit of paper with "the master is a fool" written on it in small distinct letters. The fly flew away and lighted on the master's nose, but, regardless of all except the lessons, he brushed it off, and it rose with its burden to the ceiling.—Youth's Companion.

Town Vanishes in Four Short Years

Streets Where Business Once Teemed Now Deserted.

Leeray, Tex.—Four years ago Leeray had 10,000 inhabitants, boasted of theaters, banks, hotels, dance halls, churches, schools and a chamber of commerce. Now it has only broken windows in the few deserted buildings left standing on silent streets.

The boom came in 1920 with the discovery of oil. Leeray was just open prairie then, but within six months there grew a city, pulsating with the colorful, vivid life that marks every oil town. Within a year salt water flowed into the wells and none of them turned out big producers. The inhabitants departed almost as suddenly as they came, many tearing down buildings and shipping the material and others hauling buildings overland to new locations.

Postmistress on Job.

But Leeray lived while it lived. It had its full share of exciting times, with more melodrama than routine. But all the actors have gone. All but one. Mrs. Ella Meeks, postmistress, is still here. Mrs. Meeks runs the post office and a little store, which serves the station agent and about 50 farmer folks near by, most of whom were there before Leeray flourished.

Leeray still possesses one feature of which no other town may boast. Raylee is the post-office name. It lies midway between Cisco and Breckenridge, in a bowl between two mountain ranges, and the townsite has an altitude of nearly 1,800 feet.

However, Mrs. Meeks is optimistic. She still boosts for Leeray. She pictures for it a rosy future.

"Just look at this beautiful townsite. Did you ever see a better?" she asks. "We have the mountains close by and an elevation of 1,800 feet. We have a railroad, good water and natural gas. This would make an ideal place for a hospital. It is a great cattle and poultry-producing country. Right now I am in on a scheme for getting settlers from Florida and R. Q. Lee of Cisco is planning to bring in poultry people from the North and establish the biggest poultry plant in the Southwest.

Can't Give Lots Away.

"Seven hundred acres already have been obtained for it, and we want 300 more. In the big days Leeray once had a chamber of commerce dinner that I attended, and they discussed big things for the city. Well, I haven't given up yet. The oil men said that the old residents were too penurious in charges for pipe lines and leases and for labor. They said that it was that killed the town.

"Business lots on Main street once sold for $2,000 and now you can't give them away, but that won't last. Talk about healthy climate. Why, we had only two natural deaths in four years and the physicians were the first to begin to leave."

Six wells at Leeray are still producing, but they are small affairs, yielding from six to ten barrels daily.

From the doorway of her little unpainted store where she resides and boosts, Mrs. Meeks looks out upon the Palace hotel, a brick structure, whose windows are broken and which now is silent. Debris marks the site of former buildings along the street.

Three Kings of Modern Music

30,000 YOUNG MEN TO TRAIN AT U. S. CAMPS

Government Will Furnish Transportation.

Washington.—Somewhere in the neighborhood of 30,000 youthful citizens of the United States will enjoy a month's vacation at the expense of Uncle Sam this summer.

They will be furnished their food, shelter and clothing. Transportation to and from their homes will be paid by the government, and if they are in need of medical attention that, too, will be furnished gratis.

About twenty-eight citizens' military training camps will be maintained this summer, scattered all over the United States.

The present appropriation for training camp activities will allow for the accommodation of only 30,000 men, according to War department officials, but it is expected that at least 60,000 applications will be on file at the adjutant general's office before camps open in June.

Military training, however, will be the principal feature of the training course, and if the student attends the camps four years—a month each year—he will be eligible for a commission in the reserve officers' corps.

The Women's Overseas league has recently undertaken to further the work of the citizens' military training camps, and is conducting an essay contest on the subject, "Why a young man I know should attend."
